As we move into the conference portion of this legislative session, I am reminded of how our past and future come together in defining and preserving what we treasure most about Hawai‘i. During our last two weeks in April, the Senate faces the formidable task of confirming the governor’s nominees to the various departments, boards and commissions, passing a balanced State budget and completing conference hearings on 197 Senate and 135 House bills before May. Like the Hōkūle‘a, preparing for its greatest challenge by venturing out of the Pacific Ocean and into new territorial waters, so too are we traveling into an uncertain period while relying on our heritage, expertise, instinct and values to create best policies for Hawai‘i.

In an historic gathering in the Senate chambers, Hawai‘i State Senators recognized the Polynesian Voyaging Society and the twelve living crew members from the Hōkūle‘a’s maiden voyage to Tahiti in 1976. It is the first time all living members of the Hōkūle‘a’s original crew were together since the inaugural voyage.

Recognizing the impact the Hōkūle‘a and the Polynesian Voyaging Society has made on the state of Hawai‘i, Senators honored the 40th anniversary of the legendary sailing canoe and its birth of the revival of traditional voyaging and wayfinding.

“Generations of Polynesians have been inspired by this dedicated crew,” said Sen. English. “Hōkūle‘a is a symbol, shared by the people of Hawai‘i, the Pacific and the world to perpetuate and protect our most cherished values from disappearing forever. We extend our best wishes to the Hōkūle‘a and her crew for safety and success on their Mālama Honua, the Worldwide Voyage.”

“Forty years is a long time and it raises the question: ‘Is something like a voyaging canoe relevant? Does it still have meaning and value to our society?’” said Nainoa Thompson, Pwo navigator, president of PVS and crewmember of the 1976 maiden voyage. “We are grateful to have our governmental body take the time to celebrate the worldwide voyage and to me, it shows that Hawai‘i is still with us, that the canoe still matters. As the voyage now heads into the Indian Ocean, which is much more dangerous, it gives us the strength to set sail.”

Honored on the Senate floor:

Ben Finney, Ph.D. - In 1973, Finney co-founded the Polynesian Voyaging Society with Herb Kāne and Tommy Holmes. He served as PVS’s first president.

Milton “Shorty” Bertelmann - Bertelmann first learned traditional, observational navigation from Mau Piailug during the sail from Hawai‘i to Tahiti. He served as captain on Hōkūle‘a in 1980 and 1985.

Richard “Buffalo” Keaulana - Often referred to as the “Mayor of Makaha,” Keaulana is the winner of the 1960 Makaha International.

John Kruse - Kruse is a pillar of the canoe community on Kaua‘i and continues to lead work on the Garden Isle’s own sailing canoe, Namahoe.

William “Billy” Richards - Richards serves as a director on several public service organizations, Native Hawaiian and educational boards, including Paepae O He‘eia, Bishop Museum Association Council, and ‘Aha Kāne. He is presently the Director of Communications for Partners in Development Foundation, a public not-for-profit company that serves the Native Hawaiian community through social and educational programs.

Charles Nainoa Thompson - Thompson is the first Hawaiian to practice the art of wayfinding on long distance ocean voyages since such voyaging ended in Hawai‘i around the 14th century. He now teaches a system of wayfinding that he developed by synthesizing traditional principles of ancient Pacific navigation and modern science.

Abraham “Snake” Ah Hee – Ah Hee is a vet...
The State Senate Ways and Means (WAM) Committee passed a proposed budget that reflects the depth and magnitude of our financial obligations while balancing the need to fund public priorities and overtaxing Hawai‘i’s residents and businesses.

“This year we have crafted a fiscally responsible budget that reflects tough decisions based on sound justifications,” said Sen. English. “We had to take a disciplined approach to budgeting to continue to support the residents and families of Hawai‘i.”

The Senate Draft (HB 500 HD1 SD1) is lower than the level proposed by the Executive branch:

For FY2015-2016, an additional $403 million in general funds was appropriated, which fell $3.6 million below the Executive request. The total general fund budget for FY2015-16 in the SD1 amounted to $6.6 billion.

For FY2016-2017, an additional $720 million in general funds was appropriated, which fell $11.1 million below the Executive request. The total general fund budget for FY2016-17 in the SD1 amounted to $6.9 billion.

In this budget, the Senate WAM Committee is using responsible budgeting in exercising one of its legislative duties. An additional $862,161 in Other Post Employment Benefits (OPEB) payment in FY2016 has been included as a result of the six month delay in hire decisions imposed throughout the Senate Draft of the budget. In discussions with the Department of Human Resources Development, it was clear that in establishing these new positions, filling them would not take place prior to the first half of the year. Rather than appropriating these funds and not using them, the Senate has taken the prudent approach and applied these funds towards paying down our debt.

The Senate remains committed to transparency and efficiency, especially in the delivery and procurement of programs and services. Concerns were raised when WAM saw the significant number of separate requests from all of the executive departments and agencies to fund information technology projects, and the scale of these requests. Commonality of systems and technology, an effort to streamline and find both operational and fiscal efficiencies across departments, as well as general oversight and management controls were clearly lacking. As such, the Senate Draft reflects a transfer of authority over the funding for information technology and business modernization systems to the Office of the Governor.

eran of the National Guard and served a tour in Vietnam. He credits the Hōkūle‘a’s voyage for strengthening the Hawaiian culture in spirit.

Francis Kainoa Lee - Lee became a part of the Hōkūle‘a’s first crew after his wife signed him up for a workshop in Kualoa to get acquainted with sailing the wa‘a. Lee has sailed on many voyages since and continues to support the crews in the Mālama Honua Worldwide Voyage.

Kimo Lyman - Lyman worked for the first fire department in Waialua. He is a veteran of many sails on Hōkūle‘a starting in 1976 and was the instrumental navigator on the voyage from Tahiti to Hawai‘i.

Gordon Pi‘ianai‘a - Pi‘ianai‘a’s career at sea began shortly after he graduated from the Kamehameha Schools for boys and he entered the Navy. Gordon started sailing on Hōkūle‘a in 1976 and has served as captain on numerous legs, while sailing a part of each of the voyages from 1980 through 2014.

Penny Martin - Martin is one of only two women who took part in Hōkūle‘a’s first voyage in 1976. She now works for Papahana Kualoa’s Leleka‘manu Project on Moloka‘i where she teaches cultural-based environmental education.

Dr. Ben Young - Dr. Young served as the crew’s doctor on the first voyage in 1976. Young authored the article, Psychological Effects of Long Ocean Voyages, which is still used to educate new crewmembers on how to recognize and plan for the psychological effects that could be experienced during long voyages.

Volunteers and employees of the University of Hawai‘i Honolulu Community College and its Marine Education and Training Center and the Polynesian Voyaging Society who have supported the many sails over the past 40 years were also recognized on the Senate floor. They include:
